unanimous in supporting his request. Council was unanimous in the changing of the area in the vicinity of the railroad depot from a zoning classification to 1-1 from 1-2.

Mayor Bennett reported the approval of a LEA grant in the amount of $6,000 for the purchase of a diesel powered generator for the fire department. The City has put up only five percent as matching for state and federal funds.

Bennett was given authority to pursue the diesel pump.

Discussion was held about the three lift station pumps which all went out of commission at approximately the same time.

Letter bids are to be received for new pumps as soon as possible with Mayor Bennett to call a special meeting to act on the purchase.

Council, unable to finish all of the business on the agenda, recessed the meeting until 5 p.m. Wednesday.

For The Christmas Season Of 1979, So Don't Miss It!!!

How low some folks will stoop!

Everyone has been praising the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Christmas tree at the foot of the Bay Bridge. It was one of the best decorated trees we have ever seen in the County; or least it was until someone removed the wiring and lights.

P.D. (Sonny) Bailey, chamber director and who-donated materials and manpower for decorating the tree probably summed it up best Tuesday night at a chamber meeting:

"The tree was a community project we all were proud of and then some bum comes along and tear it down."

A community project it was-the Hancock Board of Supervisors City of Bay St. Louis, City of Waveland, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, business men and women and many individuals went through a lot of trouble securing the tree and decorating it.

And then to have someone STEAL the lights and wires makes us think that someone has to be very low to do something like that.

We hope who ever it was will be caught and made to pay the price. Indications are that it was someone with expertise in electricity who removed the wires, so it probably had to be an adult.

We are happy the Chamber will redecorate the tree and hope another idiot will not try such despicable thievery again.

Health and Safety Tip

Carbon Monoxide Is Cold Weather Threat

Do you drive around in your auto on cold winter days with all the windows and vents tightly closed?

Do you sometimes warm up the car engine in your garage without first opening the door?

Do you neglect a checkup of exhaust and manifold on your car until something starts rattling or falls off?

If your answer is "Yes" to any of these questions, you are flirting with carbon monoxide poisoning, the American Medical Association reminds.

Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless, tasteless gas that comes from your auto exhaust, faulty furnaces, smouldering charcoal in a grill and some other sources. In the open air it usually is dissipated without harm to anyone. In an enclosed space it can be deadly.

Each winter brings fresh reports of deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning. The gas can seep up through the floor boards from a leaky exhaust. The victim becomes drowsy and "falls asleep." It takes only a short time for an engine running in a closed garage to fill the building with deadly gas.

No one knows how many auto accidents are caused by motorists whose reaction time is somewhat slowed by a small seepage of carbon monoxide into a closed auto. If your exhaust and manifold are in good shape, tightly fitted, you likely are safe. But it's even safer to leave a rear window open a crack.

If your furnace hasn't been checked this fall before turning it on for another winter, you also are running a monoxide risk. There may be leaks from the furnace's exhaust system.

If you enjoy charcoal grill cooking, great. But keep it where it belongs — out of doors. At least on an open porch. Burning charcoal gives off carbon monoxide too. Be certain all coals are burned out before bringing the grill indoors.

SALTY SALLY

One of the reasons we can be proud to salute our Flag is that it is emblematic of our freedom not to.

The Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland had best wind their clocks very soon.

It will be a big surprise to them in the not too far future when they find they are playing second fiddle to the Community of Diamondhead.

The addition of the Branch of Hancock Bank this week plus the other businesses in recent year shows the potential of the coming Community in Hancock County.

All we can say is wake up Bay St. Louis and Waveland in addition to saying 'keep growing Diamondhead.'

The coldest day of the year in Hancock County and what happens, the new Wave Pool is officially dedicated.

Well, we hope that by the time Spring rolls around, that at least there will be a decent road to travel there. We realize it takes time to prepare specifications for bidding, etc., but we hope a rush is put on the project.

In all seriousness, the Wave Pool at Buccaneer is probably the largest drawing card we have for tourists in the area since the opening of the park, finest in the State.

We wish Greg Smith and his staff, (which we hope he will have to multiply) a very good season for 1980. We know the park has opened the eyes of many around the state in attendance.

The Wave Pool will make it the most used facility in the State, we are told, and hope that it is true.

Just think, the Wave Pool is the only one located in the State of Mississippi and it is at Buccaneer Park in Waveland. Something to make Hancockians proud, we think.

We have to commend the Hancock Board of Supervisors at their meeting Monday for honoring three important people in politics for the past years - outgoing Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, Chancery Clerk J. D. (Big John) Rutherford and District Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson.

We also wish all three of these fine men the best of everything and hope they enjoy the years ahead.

Well, many of us has best get on the ball as the midnight hour is approaching, and that hour of course is Christmas.

If we have any shopping still to do, we best get with it or we will be too late.

Indications are the merchants of Hancock County are beginning to run low on some Christmas items.

We are happy so many of you have shopped at home for this season and want to personally thank each of you.

We know many of you will be giving your sons and daughters rifles and shotguns for Christmas.

We would like to ask each of you to please give them proper instructions on handling a gun before you let them run loose in the woods.

If you are not familiar with the proper use, we are sure you can find a neighbor to help you.

There are far too many accidents involving the young at this time of year for us not to show concern.

Christmas is only a few days from now and many of us will be traveling to visit relatives and friends.

We ask that you be extra careful on the highways in order for you to have a safe return.

If you are drinking, forget about driving; let someone else do it for you.

Statistics reflect that the majority of accidents occurring during the holidays are caused by drinking drivers.

Area residents are in for a real treat Sunday evening at 7 p.m. if they attend the Community Christmas Cantata.

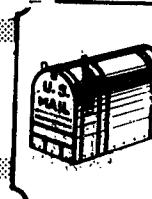

For many weeks now over 40 persons have been rehearsing for the big event. We were able to get a sneak preview this week and feel it will be the best ever in Hancock County.

Everyone is welcome for the community affair, the efforts of a combination of many local choirs. This special Christmas program will be at the Main Street United Methodist Church, Second Street in Bay St. Louis starting at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Dear Sir:

The hostages will be held indefinitely by the Islamic Republic of Iran. The U.S. and the civilized world remain impotent and practically humiliated by the Khomeini regime and their implacable, barbaric demands.

As for our so-called friends and allies, always remember, the U.S. has no permanent friends, only permanent interests. No doubt, the some 50 small Christmas trees at the White House will have to wait a long, long time before, if ever, our hostage Americans in Iran will be returned safely and unharmed, and these trees can be lighted.

Let's all offer a small prayer and remember these brave Americans.

Billions for defense but not one cent for tribute. No acceptance of blackmail, Mr. President.

Dear Mr. Cuevas:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank The Sea Coast Echo and the citizens of Bay St. Louis for the outstanding support and cooperation extended to Keesler Air Force Base during the past year.

This team effort between the military and civilian communities is a prime source of America's strength.

Without this total team effort, it would be impossible for us to successfully accomplish our Air Force mission of defending the nation and preserving our freedom.

In this warmest of holiday seasons, we wish you and yours a very merry Christmas and a safe and prosperous New Year.

Movie theatre closing is illegal censorship

December 13, 1979

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

Regarding the actions of Mayor Bennett in the closing of the Star Theatre, I do not know if I wish to congratulate him or scold him with congratulations.

I applaud his decision for closing the theatre Friday night for showing "Richard Pryor in Concert," but I severely question his reasons.

I was glad that your paper distinguished the movie as R, not X-rated, a very important fact on which the mayor erred.

I agree to any action, such as closing down the theatre for the night (even though I do not believe the mayor has the legal right to do so), for the simple fact that the management of the theatre violated the movie rating code by allowing children in who were not accompanied by a parent or guardian.

The management of the Star and the parents of the children should take more responsibility when such movies are shown as to who should be able to see them.

What I do not agree with is the fact that the mayor closed down what he thought was an X-rated movie for "the good of our little town."

Now, like the mayor I have no fondness for X-rated movies, either.

I have been to some very entertaining and important movies that were rated R. With the distinct prospect of a twin-cinema opening here in Bay St. Louis (and another in Waveland) which will be part of a franchise, it is questionable that our mayor has such powers as to close down the theatre.

Why? Since the theatre will be owned by a big franchise, we may expect in Bay St. Louis the showing of current, popular movies, many of which will be probably "R," such as the Pryor movie, containing objectionable language and situations.

The language in "And Justice For All" and "Apocalypse Now" is quite strong, but these movies, which make strong and relatable social commentary, cannot be classified as pornographic.

Why? If these new theatres are indeed run by a large chain, we can not only expect responsible management which honors the R rating, but advertised movies (the phone system at the Star is truly not adequate) which may give us some ideas as to what is being shown.

Why? In Hattiesburg several years ago, there was quite a controversy over the showing of the movie "The Exorcist."

While I was at USM, one of my professors who was either in his late 40's or early 50's recalls the incident when he was forced to show identification at the door to get in.

Recently around the country, the movie "The Life of Brian," the story of an idiot in Biblical times who is thought to be the Messiah, was attacked by religious groups and banned in several areas.

The Monty Python comedy was termed "sacrilegious," but from what I read about the picture, in his appearance in the movie, Christ is depicted reverently and respectfully.

Anyone familiar with the type of Monty Python humor may find it objectionable, but that is a matter of personal taste.

If Mayor Bennett again presumes to rate a movie X by error, such incidents as above may occur. "The Life of Brian," which makes fun at us, not Christ, was a victim of ignorance.

Why? These films are intended for mature, adult audiences, and with proper supervision, can be seen by audiences which they are intended.

Why? The mayor's statements smacks of censorship. It is said censorship does not allow for the freedom of the right of judgement and choice.

Why? In a way, we all have some sort of power over what movies are seen in Bay St. Louis when we patronize them. We can make the decisions for ourselves.

Mayor Bennett should not be provided with the power to make these decisions for all of us. If an R rated movie comes to town, some people may wish to see it. Some may not. That is their right.

As for children seeing the movies, the parents should be aware of what is playing and make responsible judgments, as in television viewing.

Sincerely,
Peter Scianca

Seniors celebrate Christmas

BY MS. PETE CARR
The Bay St. Louis American Legion Hall was filled to capacity at the Senior Citizens of Hancock County annual Christmas Party Monday.

There was some table hopping as we attempted to speak to friends made through activities at the Center.

There was an atmosphere of Christmas cheer and Santa Claus and his helpers presented each one of us with a ceramic Christmas boot which brought warm smiles of appreciation.

The Jolly Seniors band organized and sponsored by the City of Mobile, Department of Recreation entertained and Charles Johnson Rev. Charles Clark and Mr. Conrad Mauffray, executive director of United Way led the singing of Christmas Carols.

A warm relaxed Christmas feeling prevailed in the air as the carols echoed in the room.

Mrs. Margaret Gavagne of Security Savings and Loan Association attended and as always faithfully presented a lovely basket of fruit as the door prize and warmly expressed Christmas Greetings to one and all.

The Sisters Three, Little Caesar's and Danny's Fried Chicken also has representatives and furnished dinner for two as door prizes.

We certainly appreciate their cooperation with our Center in furnishing not only at Christmas time but other occasions their respective goodies as prizes.

Our Susan Krost, Program Specialist, busy completing reports and assisting Jim Hoda wherever needed, also helped in the completion of the Christmas boots.

Everyone pitched in to complete over 200 boots.

Mrs. Gertrude Fayard faithfully sat day in and day out getting them out (I intend to tell you about her one day) and I saw Jim Hoda sitting with her and working on them as well as Gerry Blanchard and the Day Care group.

We all thank you for this very appropriate favor and souvenir of our 1979 Christmas Party.

Mrs. Agnes Leroy, teacher of the quilting class is to be commended for her faithful participation and her devotion to and warm affection for her pupils.

With her leadership, class members made and donated as a prize a very beautiful quilt.

This class has raffled off quilts during the year and with the money they furnished the refreshments served at the party.

I wish I had the space to list all the names but to each and every one we all want you to know how much this was appreciated.

RSVP paid the ceramic class for the Christmas trees made and which were furnished as door prizes.

Everyone getting together makes things tick, and although hectic some times, the end results made everything turn our happily for everyone.

Last but not least a testimonial and plaque were presented to John Rutherford in appreciation of his service through the years to the senior citizens.

Mr. Rutherford was at a meeting, so Mr. Dolph Kellar accepted for him.

Later, Mr. Rutherford was able to come by personally to thank us for this honor and to pledge his continued support for one of his favorite group of folks.

The next time this column appears, Christmas will be another Christmas past. I feel a sadness at writing this as I never measured the years by my many birthdays, but always by Christmas Eves.

Christmas Eve for as long as I can remember was when everyone had gone to bed and I would sit under the tree looking at all the packages which were laid to rest there with so much love.

I would go back in memory to the passing year and what it had brought some joys, some sorrows.

Listening to the Christmas record and the message it carried, I tried to wrap up the sorrows in a special package and with the hope the Christmas message brings lifted my heart to the joy of just being alive.

To each and everyone may I quote I Cor. 13:15. And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

News from the Church of St. Ann

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor St. Ann's Parish...

...He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family or owned a home....He did none of the things one usually associates with greatness...He was nailed to a cross between two thieves....When He was dead, He was laid in a borrowed grave...

Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today He is the central figure of the human race....All the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever sailed....have not affected the life of man on this earth as much as That One Solitary Life.

Religious education classes have been dismissed and will resume after the holidays.

Naval Academy training for women same as men

(Editors Note: This is the third of a series on the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. The first women will be graduating in the class of 1980. Mississippi only has 20 midshipmen and should have at least 35, we hope this series will generate a renewed interest in the Academy among parents and students here.)

All 4,400 men and women midshipmen enrolled at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., face the same demanding program of academic, physical and professional training. All will graduate equally qualified as line officers in the Navy and Marine Corps.

Since the first 81 women midshipmen reported aboard in July, 1976, as members of the Class of 1980, they have been assigned to duties in the same fashion as their male counterparts and required to compete equally in all phases of Naval Academy life.

Legislation enacted by Congress and approved by the President in October, 1975, provided that the Secretary of the Navy determine the number of women midshipmen to be admitted annually, "dependent upon the needs of the service." In the Class of 1983, which reported in July, 1979, there were 90 women.

Woman applicants face the same general admission standards as men, with only minor adjustments in the entrance physical.

Academic achievement, physical aptitude, motivation and demonstrated leadership potential are all incorporated in the selection process. Each year upwards of 12,000 applicants are screened to select candidates for appointment as a midshipmen. To assure equal opportunity, the number of women appointed from each of the existing sources of nomination is proportional to the total number of appointments authorized by law. Women compete with men within each category except for qualified sons and daughters of Medal of Honor winners who are admitted without limit. More than 1,200 women applied for admission to the academy in 1979.

No changes in the academic program were made due to the admission of women at the Naval Academy and women midshipmen select majors under the same ground rules as men.

In the area of professional development, all midshipmen receive the same classroom and laboratory instruction and train aboard the academy's 85-foot yard patrol craft (YP) in the Chesapeake Bay.

Midshipmen spend portions of their summers with the fleet. After completing their first and third years at Annapolis, they are assigned to Navy ships around the world.

The summer following their second year is spent visiting various naval shore installations for familiarization in naval air, submarine service, surface ship operations and the Marine Corps - the four branches of the naval service to which they will be assigned upon graduation.

In the summer of 1979, 54 female midshipmen first class were, for the first time in academy history, assigned training duties in the fleet aboard ships.

The recent federal statute, title 10 of the U.S. Code, Section 6015, now permits the permanent duty assignment of women to non-combantant ships such as repair or tender ships, and temporary duty to any ship for periods of 180 days or less, if the ship will not be assigned a combat mission.

Physical education classes and participation in athletic competition is required for all midshipmen, men and women, at either the intramural or intercollegiate level. Women are encouraged to compete in all 28 varsity and 31 intramural sports except the contact sports of football, lacrosse, wrestling, boxing and rugby.

Presently there are six women's varsity teams at the academy, including sailing, crew, fencing, basketball, volleyball and swimming.

Women also participate in the same basic physical fitness and physical education programs as men. Minor adjustments have been made in content and minimum standards, dictated by physiological difference. For example, women do not chin on a horizontal bar; rather, they must perform a "flexed arm hand," holding their weight with their head above the bar for specific periods of time.

While boxing and wrestling are required for men, women midshipmen instead take judo and hand-to-hand combat training.

All midshipmen live in the 33-acre Bancroft Hall, in company areas. Women have been integrated into the Brigade of Midshipmen fully and are assigned to all 36 companies in the same fashion as are male midshipmen.

Women live two or three to a room as do the men, adjacent to their male classmates. Each room contains a shower and wash basin. Separate rest room facilities with appropriate privacy have been provided. Similarly, separate shower and locker room facilities are located in athletic areas.

Women midshipmen, as members of regular companies within the Brigade, participate in drills and parades alongside male midshipmen. Their military duties and responsibilities are identical.

No special counseling service were established for women midshipmen, as there are none for men. However, commissioned officers, including 24 women, on duty at the Naval Academy are always available for consultation, as are civilian faculty members, medical and chaplain staffs. Additionally, many officer and civilian faculty and staff members, along with various members of the Annapolis community, serve as sponsors for midshipmen, opening their homes to these young people.

Uniforms adopted for women midshipmen follow closely the traditional midshipman design, but tailored for females. They are, as much as practicable, identical to those worn by women officers in the Navy so that they may be used following graduation.

Records during the years that women midshipmen have been enrolled show them performing much as their male counterparts in all areas - some outstanding, others working hard to make it. No particular problem areas unique to women, in academic, physical or professional training phases, have surfaced.

Midshipmen are members of the United States Navy and receive a salary. However, during their first two years at the Naval Academy midshipmen may resign without incurring additional service obligation.

The record to date shows women leaving the academy, voluntarily or otherwise, in essentially the same ratio as men, and for the same general reasons. On the average, two out of three midshipmen complete the four year course in Annapolis.

Upon graduation, midshipmen receive a Bachelor of Science degree and are commissioned as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps. After additional training in their assigned warfare specialty, all are assigned to an initial tour with an operational unit, followed in some cases by postgraduate work.

WOMEN TO GRADUATE - Women will be among the midshipmen graduating from The United States Naval Academy in 1980. It will be the first class for women to be commissioned from the Navy's Officer Training school at Annapolis, Md. Women compete with men in school and will further their training upon graduation in late May just like the men graduates. Women interested in the Naval Academy can apply just like men for an appointment to the Navy's Officer training facility.

regulations, council President Pete Benvenuti said he and Paul Vegas, president of the Planning and Zoning Commission, checked the regulations.

"The Planning and Zoning regulations say that trailers are only allowed in trailer parks and trailers or temporary buildings are only allowed with special permission on construction sites and have to be approved by the board of variance," Benvenuti said.

Mrs. Jeannie Garcia, owner of Jeannie's Gift Shop in Waveland, commented she had purchased a privilege license to sell fireworks and had already ordered a supply and paid rent on property on US-90 at Carroll Ave.

City Clerk McQueen mentioned that the privilege license was only a permit to sell and not permission for a portable building or trailer.

Mention was made of lack of restroom facilities in many of the buildings used to sell fireworks as health hazard.

Benvenuti questioned whether the council was going to uphold violations and let people break the law.

The Council president made a motion disallowing Vincent operating in a trailer or portable building and it was passed unanimously.

Council gave indication that Vincent had been duly notified that trailers were in violation of subdivision regulations.

Vegas said possibly the Council would consider giving other violators 60 days to move out the trailers and portable buildings.

Benvenuti then made a motion giving all other trailers and portable buildings 30 days notice to move out because of violation of city zoning regulations. The motion was unanimously approved by the Council.

During the discussion, Benvenuti read aloud the regulations for selling fireworks within the city limits.

The law mentions sales as being permitted 10 days before and 5 days after Christmas, New Years and July 4th.

Some four or five people sell fireworks in the city limits of Bay St. Louis under these regulations.

Goodwill opens expanded facility

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Goodwill Industries, Inc. of Bay St. Louis formally opened a new and expanded store on 211 Nekaise Ave. in Bay St. Louis.

The new location will have a larger stock of primarily clothing items according to Leroy Modenbach, director of Goodwill for the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

"It has been said by the experts that a Goodwill store couldn't make it in Bay St. Louis. But, you've proved the experts wrong. The community has supported Goodwill which is the main reason for its success and expansion," Modenbach stated.

Mayor Larry Bennett cut the ribbon opening the store and praised Goodwill as an integral part of the community.

Rev. Louis Lohan, administrator for Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church delivered the invocation and blessing for the facility.

Modenbach said that their present store "will possibly expand into selling appliances and furniture."

The grand opening was attended by about 20 people and several people were already shopping for clothing during the ceremonies.

"We feel Goodwill is here to stay. We are greatful to be partially funded by the United Way of Hancock County but we need to sell our items because it's the only way we can survive," Modenbach said.

"Goodwill provides jobs for handicapped people and at the same time provides good quality second-hand clothing at a modest price," Modenbach explained.

The Goodwill Director also encourages everyone to bring any unwanted items to the store and especially fragile things that might be damaged being placed in one of the Goodwill boxes.

Modenbach stated, "We do not sell junk but, good second hand items."

"We are continually rotating our clothing stock every 2-4 weeks and we make sure these items are clean, in style and in good condition."

Angie Morreale is Manager of the Bay St. Louis store assisted by Rosalie Benigno and Frances Comprettta.

After the official remarks the waves in the pool were activated and spectators were invited to view the wave making machinery.

Park Manager Greg Smith explained how the waves are induced by air pressure from several large turbines located in back of the pool.

Dispelling rumors of deaths caused by wave pools, Smith said, "There has not been a single death in any of the 20 existing wave pools in the U.S."

In addition to the pool's main controls park officials pointed out additional safety switches at lifeguard stations where the wave action can be immediately turned off in an emergency.

Invocation was by Rev. Nathan Barber of First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis with benediction by Rev. Warren Drinker of St. Clares Catholic Church in Waveland.

The Goodwill Director also encourages everyone to bring any unwanted items to the store and

THE MIRACLE OF CHRISTMAS

The wonderment in a small child's eyes,

The ageless awe in the Christmas skies.

The nameless joy that fills the air,

The throngs that kneel in praise and prayer...

These are the things that make us know

That men may come and men may go,

But none will ever find a way

To banish Christ from Christmas Day...

For with each child there's born again

A Mystery that baffles men.

Hancock forests in danger of wildfires

The potential for destructive wildfires in Mississippi during the next few months will be abnormally high, warns Area Forester Rand D. Riedrich, of Hancock State Forestry Commission.

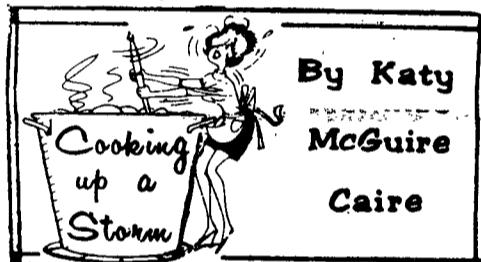

Riedrich said that the abundance of dense, cured vegetation and leaves, coupled with the advent of frequent cold fronts and brisk winds, makes wildfire danger especially bad this time of year.

The Area Forester is asking all Mississippians to use special caution in doing any outdoor burning between now and the end of April when the land will green-up again.

"Many of the worst fires are started by people burning trash, garden debris, fence rows and the like," said Riedrich. "A lot of well-meaning, law abiding citizens just fail to use good judgement and the result is often a destructive fire burning out of control."

In recent days fires burning out of control have destroyed thousands of dollars worth of personal property including residences, barns and vehicles. Many of these fires were caused by careless burning while others were deliberately set. A fire is set deliberately on another's property is arson and is punishable by a fine and prison sentence.

From bayou communities to River Road mansions, the "Acadians" (Cajuns) of Louisiana keep Christmas well, as do their Creole cousins, following year-long traditions.

Christmas in the Acadiana of South Louisiana begins the night before with the "Messe de minuit"-the Midnight Mass. And as the last note of the Mass fades on the air, the solemnity of the occasion turns to festivity, with "Le Reveillon" -the reunion, the traditional late meal that follows the religious services.

From Grandpare down to the youngest infant in arms, the families gather 'round the festive board to partake of such delicacies as daube glace (the jellied meat) as well as ham, salads, cakes and custards, all topped off of course with the "petit noir", the "small black cup of coffee, strong, strong!"

Or, perhaps, the Reveillon climaxes with midnight-dark, aromatic Cafe Brutol-black coffee-laced with brandy and strips of orange peel, served at the table in a flaming finale to a fine feast.

You may like your breakfast later on Christmas morning, or plan a light breakfast before the Yuletide feast.

Cafe Brutol is a fitting climax to either, or, like so many families these days, you serve your Christmas dinner on Christmas Eve, you'll find Cafe Brutol a good finale for the buffet table on Christmas Day.

Here, to serve six (increase quantities as needed):

CAFE BRUTOL

Cut the peel of an orange, and of a lemon into strips about an inch by an eighth inch.

Place on a plate at table along with three jumps of sugar, six whole cloves, a stick of broken cinnamon.

Light the burner under a brutol bowl or chafing dish pan, with the flame set at low.

Drop the peel, sugar, cloves and cinnamon stick pieces into the bowl or pan, pour in enough cognac to cover completely, up to a cup, and ignite.

Savings bond changes told

The Treasury Department today announced that the new Series EE saving bonds which go on sale effective January 1, 1980, will be called United States Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE, and will receive a 1/2 percent bonus if held to maturity.

The interest rate on U.S. Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE, will be increased from 6.5 percent to 7 percent for bonds held for the full 11 years to maturity. Series E bonds that have not yet matured and U.S. Savings Notes ("Freedom Shares") will also receive the 1/2 percent bonus if they are held for 11 years from the date of the first semiannual interest period that begins on or after January 1, 1980. Bonds and notes redeemed earlier will not receive the bonus.

The redesignation of the bonds as Energy Savings Bonds is intended to help focus attention on the national goals of reducing energy consumption and increasing domestic supplies. The bonds were known as Defense Bonds before and after World War II and as War Bonds from 1941 to 1945 reflecting the national concerns of those times.

The Energy Savings Bonds will assist in financing the large Federal energy expenditure required in the coming years.

After June 30, 1980, all U.S.

Savings Bonds bought through payroll savings plans will be Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE. Series H and HH Savings Bonds will not be affected by these changes.

"Ma Bell" preparing for busiest season

Local South Central Bell people are making preparations for one of the year's busiest holiday for long distance calling.

Franklin Kyle, Jr., District Manager says that Christmas Day, 1979, is expected to be one of the most active ever, with coast area residents exchanging Christmas greetings with friends all over the country and overseas.

"While most calls will get through without difficulty," Kyle said, "there may be times on Christmas Eve, Christmas morning, and on Christmas night when some calls will be delayed due to busy circuits."

"To avoid delay, he suggested that customers dial their own calls. "That will also free more operators to assist customers with calls requiring special handling," he said. Kyle suggested also that where possible, calls be placed on Saturday or Sunday before Christmas.

"In addition to avoiding possible delays on Christmas Day," he said, "callers will get the double benefit of the reduced direct dialed rates and the reduced week-end rates in effect all day Saturday and Sunday."

Kyle said, however, that many additional operators and all available circuits will be working to reduce the chance of delayed calls due to congested conditions.

SBA extends disaster loan deadline to Jan. 14

The deadline for filing SBA disaster loan applications has been extended thirty days to January 14, 1980. Residents of the 16 declared and 8 adjacent counties who suffered losses as a result of Hurricane Frederic now have an additional thirty days in which to apply for a low-interest, long-term loan from SBA.

The deadline was extended at Governor's Finch's request in order to accommodate the large numbers of Individual and Family Grant (IFG) applicants who neglected to apply first to SBA in order to be eligible for a family grant.

It was discovered that many people who felt they were not eligible for a disaster loan only applied to the IFG program, not realizing that applications for the grant cannot be processed until they have applied to SBA and been declined and referred to IFG by SBA.

"We urge anyone who applied for a grant without first coming to SBA to visit the SBA disaster office and complete an application. We can then submit the applicant's name to IFG so that your grant can be processed, said Fred Stone, SBA Disaster Manager.

The SBA Disaster office is located in Biloxi at 132 East Washington Avenue. Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. The office will be closed December 22nd through the 25th and January 1st for the Holiday.

For further information contact the SBA disaster office in Biloxi at 374-5520.

Lock up packages in car, consumer specialist says

offers these suggestions to help insure that your gift will not be stolen:

-Always lock your door, even if you'll only be away from the car for a few minutes;

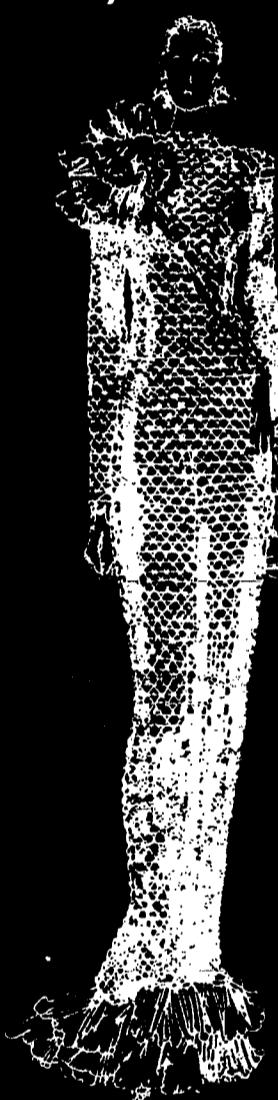

-Be sure all windows are closed;

-When you leave the car, put packages in the trunk and be sure it is locked. Don't attempt thieves by putting your parcels on display inside the car;

-But keep in mind that depending on the type of insurance purchased, thefts of personal property from a motor vehicle or trailer-other than a public conveyance such as a bus or taxicab-may be covered only if the thief forces the vehicle open while all the doors, windows and other openings in the car are closed and locked.

Early Warning

Chewing was the chief form of tobacco consumption at the turn of the 20th century. The result was a nation of spitters.

This early health warning from the American Lung Association helped eliminate spitting, a habit thought to help spread tuberculosis.

Today the Christmas Seal people warn against use of cigarettes, the chief cause of emphysema.

Brownbuilder John Williams is working for you in Mississippi

John A. Williams, from Lucedale, is a Mississippi Brownbuilder—one of the men and women of Brown & Root—working for you in Mississippi.

John joined Brown & Root in 1977 working as a warehouseman, and is now a cardex supervisor. He and his wife, Carolyn, live in Lucedale with their son and daughter. They attend the First Baptist Church, and John plays softball with an independent league in his leisure time.

Mississippi Brownbuilders like John are working for you and thousands of your neighbors. He's helping to build the hardware, such as oil fields and power plants, which will help insure Mississippi's future growth and prosperity.

Because of Brown & Root's policy of hiring locally first, most of our Brownbuilders here are Mississippi natives or longtime residents. Many of them first joined Brown & Root at project personnel offices near their homes. And, Brown & Root hires and promotes solely on the basis of individual ability and merit. Anyone willing and qualified is eligible to work. That way, local communities, counties and the state get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—hundreds of thousands of dollars in payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes.

LIFETIME MATES

Many large, migratory birds, such as geese, who mate for life, do so out of necessity, according to the National Wildlife Federation. After migrating thousands of miles to their nesting grounds they don't have time to court a new mate each year.

THE ECONOMICS OF ENERGY MORE GAS BUT IT COSTS MORE

United Gas does not own gas-producing properties. It buys its natural gas supplies from producers.

For many years, the price of natural gas that producers sold in interstate commerce was controlled by federal regulation. Natural gas not sold in interstate commerce had no such price restriction; the cost was allowed to rise toward its true value.

Now the entire structure of the natural gas business is changing. New national legislation (The Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978) permits natural gas producers to charge more for gas sold in interstate commerce — prices more in line with the so-called "intrastate" market. This new incentive will result in more gas being available to both interstate and intrastate markets, because producers are investing their increased revenues in efforts to develop more gas supplies.

It's our economic system at work.

But, of course, what happens at one end of a pipeline affects what happens at the other because pipeline companies like United Gas simply link customers with the producing areas. If the price paid for gas increases at one end of the pipeline, it naturally will increase at the other.

Unavoidably, natural gas will cost more, but there will be more gas available.

And that's important to you.

Senator Thad Cochran

Energy and taxes are two of the biggest issues before the nation and Congress as we enter the 1980s.

It is my sincere belief that we need to encourage the private sector to expand the exploration, development, production and delivery of energy so that our nation's basic requirements will be met.

Even as we seek to do this, however, we all need to recognize the great necessity to conserve on energy usage, because it is apparent that the days of cheap and abundant oil, gas and electricity are over.

On the other hand, punitive taxation, designed merely to divert capital from private enterprise into the federal government's coffers, is not the best answer. For example, the administration's so-called windfall profits tax on petroleum will not help produce one single barrel of oil. Instead, it most likely will bring sharply increased prices of oil and gas for consumers; and by adding billions to the federal treasury it will enlarge the government's role in the lives of all Americans.

A more sensible approach would be to encourage our nation's energy producers to reinvest their profits in efforts to develop new energy sources and supplies in order to make the United States less dependent on imported foreign oil. Adequate supplies would help stabilize prices, too.

The bill brought to the Senate imposes almost $200 billion in new taxes that ultimately will be paid by the American people. Oil doesn't pay taxes People do.

The taxes are not imposed on profits of oil companies as advertised by the administration. They are to be paid whether a profit on production is made or not.

Senator Jim McClure of Idaho and I tried, unsuccessfully, to amend the administration-backed bill to impose the tax only on operations which earned profits in excess of the rate of return on investment generally among American business. The taxes would have forced investment of profits in new energy products with shortages.

Because this approach is not included in the bill, I can't support it. The American people are really going to be shocked when they learn that Congress has enacted an administration-backed energy program that results in the worst of all possible scenarios -- higher energy costs with shortages.

Another proposition being voiced by some administration spokesmen in

It is our prayer that mankind will find a peace that's lasting.

SPECIAL REPORT:

Washington is for a fifty cents per gallon increase in the federal gasoline tax. These high gas tax proponents claim this price hike would force an equally dramatic cutback in gasoline consumption. No doubt, it would to some degree. But it would also be a severe economic burden for many Americans, particularly in states such as Mississippi, where our transportation alternatives are non-existent, and cars or pickup trucks are the sole means of getting to work.

Energy and Taxes

I am firmly opposed to such a staggering increase in the price of gasoline. There are better ways of encouraging conservation of fuel than by a tax increase that effectively raises the price to the consumer by about fifty percent.

I will continue to work in the Senate for effective energy programs for our nation. I believe these policies must be very carefully constructed, however, so that they encourage both conservation and production of new energy, that they apply fairly to all sections of the nation.

and that the tax burden on the American people is not increased.
